

The Bluebirds
are back!
And they could use a little help.
A Bluebird
lover is needed to monitor a local trail of birdhouses

to make sure nesting cavities are available for them to raise their broods, resulting in increasing their population.

Where: Swamplovers Nature Preserve, located on County Road KP west of Cross Plains

When: Weekly, from early April to early August

What: Trail monitoring involves checking them once a week to observe occupancy, record egg laying, bird fledging, and cleaning out the box.

Mentoring is provided for those who are interested, but have no experience. For more information, call Dave at 608-338-9983.
